Thoughts and Prayers
February 2026

Although we have recently seen snow, cold and rain, the days are getting lighter and as we move into spring, we look for new beginnings in the garden. The bulbs are showing leaf and the snowdrops and primroses are out. Climate change has made a difference, where is the very deep snow and weeks of heavy frosts, why were roses still in flower over Christmas? I am sure you will have noticed other changes. The Met Office have just reported that 2025 was the warmest year since records began over 100 years ago. There is now no doubt that human influence over the past centuries has led to this change. The changing climate has led to more flooding, heatwaves and a warming ocean and sea level rise. All these affecting how we in the world live now and how we need to plan for the future. In the Old Testament, the prophet Hosea, writes about a breakdown in the relationship between humans and God (chapter 4; vs 1-3), which led to a breakdown in relationships among people and between humans and the rest of creation. Human injustice was rife and the inevitable result was bloodshed and pain – a good description of many areas of the world today!

It is interesting to read in verse 3 “the land mourns” and “together with the wild animals and the birds of the air, even the fish of the sea perishing”. A prophecy perhaps for today? Have we lost the connection between creation and our responsibilities, between nature and our integral part of it. Have we taken advantage of the world without a thought of the damage it could do? Well of course hindsight is a wonderful thing to have, and yes we should have been more caring for the world we live in. But we need to look forward. How can we improve the world we live in? How can we help those who are so dramatically affected by the changing climate, that is our challenge for the coming years. We need to prioritise ways of living lightly, to give the planet space to renew itself.

Use less, waste less, that must be our challenge for the good of the planet and for all its inhabitants and, improve the relationship between us and God and between us and the natural world.

May God keep and bless you all,
John Ash
